Virginia Camp Story

Virginia Camp for Girls has been an institution in Northfield for many years and each summer has witnessed the coming and going of groups who have enjoyed a two weeks stay from the crowded streets and tenements of New York city. This summer was no exception and a successful camp was conducted with Miss Hazel W. Harper in charge. Perhaps a portion of an article by Caroline Johnston, a camp councillor, which, appeared in the monthly bulletin of the New York City Mission last June might be timely information for all, especially those who love humanity, have hope for the future in the coming generation. Miss Johnston says:

"The success of Virginia Camp, in fact its very being, is founded upon the influence and personal enthusiasm of the Moody family. Each year Miss Harper relates to the girls the history of the Moody family and how Virginia Camp was established. To the girls, the story is almost a fairy tale. Over twenty-five years ago one of Mrs. Will Moody's daughters was in New York, doing social work. One day she wired her mother: 'Have twenty-five girls ready to send to camp and no place to go. Will you take them?' Mrs. Moody, the daughter-in-law of Dwight L. Moody, was surprised, but not perplexed, and the descending girls spent two happy weeks, living co-operatively in one of the seminary dormitories. A few seasons in this manner would have exhausted most women, but it was a challenge to Mrs. Moody to have a more permanent place for New York City girls. Action was taken, an old camp site seemed suitable, and in memory of her daughter, Virginia, Mrs. Moody presented it for the camp. Each year since 1927 it has been loaned to the New York City Mission. Since 1932 Miss Hazel W. Harper has been Director. Local girls raised money for the erection of the cabins. There is a permanent Camp Committee of local women who give much support. Among the valued members of the Northfield Committee was Mrs. Arthur P. Pitt, daughter of Dwight L. Moody.

"The Cathedral pines made Virginia Camp a show place for visitors, but in 1938 the hurricane played havoc. In their place we now have abundant sunshine and an open hillside.

"Certainly the highlight for each camp group is the visit to Mrs. Will Moody's charming home. The spaciousness of the lawns, the cunning playhouse, the colonial home, and the genuine interest of the hostess in each girl, make it an evening to be long remembered by the campers.

God's majesty is a reality to our New York girls as they look out from 'Round Top,' the burial place of Dwight L. Moody, and feel they can express their thanks to the community whose guests they are."

The Cheshire Fair

Interest in the Cheshire Fair in Keene, N. H., is mounting high as plans for an elaborate program of events is going ahead at top speed. The annual event which draws hundreds from this region to Safford Park will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 6, 7 and 8th.

Entries in the different departments of the Fair are coming in daily at the office, 11 Roxbury street in Keene, and the usual amount of premiums are offered as well as several special prizes. The PTA is sponsoring the Educational tent and will have attractive booths. The "Little Theatre" where pictures and programs will be held daily, and food booths with home made cooking.

The popular Horse Show and running races will take place, with Gov. Charles M. Dale in attendance for the final day of the Fair. Special events include the New England Sheep Dog Trials and Horse Reel Laying Contest on Thursday, Harness Racing and a baseball game on Friday, and Horse and Ox Pulling under lights, music by the Cheshire Fair band, vaudeville and an Amateur contest.

The fair officials promise a bigger and better program than ever and with something doing every minute for all the family.

Salvage Will End

The saving of waste paper, tin cans and kitchen fats will end on September 30th so far as the government is concerned and this announcement has been made in Washington. The volunteer members of all Salvage committees will receive their merited thanks and words of appreciation. In Northfield it is expected that the Boy Scouts will continue their work of collecting old paper and magazines, for the purpose of selling in the open market and keeping funds in their treasury. Luckey O. Clapp has been the chairman of the Salvage committee in Northfield during its many campaigns and has done a good job well. He and the members of the committee desire to thank the citizens of the community for their hearty and willing cooperation. It is expected that there will be one more official collection here.

Florence Adams Dies

Miss Florence Adams of Waban died at the Newton hospital on Tuesday, August 21, after a prolonged illness with pneumonia. She was a native of this town and was frequently at her home at the Farms where she was well known and loved. She was educated in the local schools and had always been interested in the religious and civic life of the community. Funeral services were held the following Friday at Kidders funeral home and burial was in the family plot in the Farms cemetery.

Historical Society

The Historical Society will hold its quarterly meeting in the rooms of its museum on Pine Street on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock, September 4th when the topic of Educational Pioneering in New England will be presented in a paper by Miss Elsie Scott, the president, who has done considerable research upon it. Miss Scott will review the historical facts of how first, Christianity, then Democracy, fostered education from the founding of Harvard and Yale, Mount Holyoke and Wellesley to the Northfield schools. The training of ministers and teachers and the development of public schools, with equal opportunities for boys and girls are traced along with the founding and settlement of towns throughout New England, especially those towns whence came the establishment of communities in this river valley. Members are urged to keep the date in mind and plan to attend this important gathering when so much of history will be revealed.

Salvage To Continue

Our citizens are asked to save their tin cans by the usual method and Chairman Luckey O. Clapp states it is a government request. The collection in Northfield will be early in October. It will also be well for all householders to accumulate their waste paper and bundle it. The Boy Scouts will be around for another collection at a not far distant date.

Our Public Schools

The public schools of this town will open Wednesday, September 5th. The lunch room will not serve lunches until Monday, September 10th. Milk will be served from the opening day, however.

There were five resignations during the summer and the following new teachers have been engaged to fill the following positions:

At the high school—For English-Spanish, Miss Nellie Dearstyne, a graduate of the American International College with a number of years' experience substituting in the Springfield schools; and for Home Economics and school lunch supervisor, Miss Betty Southwick, a graduate of State College, Class of 1945. The History-Latin position has not yet been filled.

At the Center School—Grade 7, Mrs. George Sheldon; grade 7, Mrs. Willis Parker; and grade 2, Miss Arlene French, a former teacher in Dummerston, Vermont.

The transportation routes have been reestablished that were in existence previous to the war. Pupils living more than 1½ miles will be carried as follows: East Northfield bus: Birnam Road to Pierson Road; Wana-maker Road to Ashue of Road; Hinsdale Road to State Line to school; Plain street and Warwick avenue re-established; and West Northfield bus will now go to Hell's Kitchen and to Laplante's store.

Don't Sell War Bonds

With the ending of the war, it has been noted that some holders of War Bonds have been cashing in. It is to be hoped that owners will hold them to maturity if possible in order to receive full returns and to be of continued assistance to the government which needs all available funds with which to meet the obligations of the war. The government needs all monies received from the sale of bonds and now plans the eighth and last campaign for the sale of Victory Bonds. Instead of selling any holdings, everyone should plan to buy more and to get ready for the final effort.

Biagotti Sells Out

Peter Biagotti, who has for many years resided on the Hinsdale road near the New Hampshire state line, has sold his property to Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Carbondell of Brattleboro. Mr. Biagotti and Miss Lena Biagotti will vacate about October 20th and plan to go to Italy as soon thereafter as possible to visit relatives. Upon their return they will reside in Brattleboro. Mr. Biagotti was engaged in the chicken and egg business and has supplied several hotels in Boston regularly. They also had a filling station for Gulf gasoline and oils which the new owners will continue. Many improvements are expected to be made by the new owners.

"MAN—THE LUNGS ON THAT KID!"

PROUD AND EXCITED? You bet. Just off the transport from Europe, the sergeant is calling home and hearing for the first time the lusty cry of the baby son he's never seen.

To telephone home... that's an instinctive move with most of the thousands of battle-ribbed veterans returning daily.

These men will be passing through New England for many months to come. You can help them establish their vital links with home quickly by making only essential calls, and by keeping those as brief as possible.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Will Police Property

At a final meeting of the Directors of the Rustic Ridge Association held Tuesday evening, the 28th, arrangements were made for policing all properties during the coming winter season. New signs will be posted forbidding trespass and hunting of any kind. Efforts will be made to improve the service of electricity by heavier wires and by some relocation of poles. Electricity will be provided for members of the association at their homes if at all possible. It was decided to sell the former Bruce cottage and bids for it will be invited. A budget was presented and approved which will provide for many improvements to the roads in advance of next season's opening. With the passing of September there will be the beginning of an exodus of summer visitors, although an unusually large number will remain for the fall season to enjoy the fine weather and autumn foliage.

Has a Print Plant

The Youth Hostel has installed quite a complete plant for printing its magazine "The Knapsack", and other literature necessary to carry forward its work, as well as its requirements of letter heads, envelopes and cards. The press is an offset outfit of the modern type and Gene Cullum is in charge. Several rooms in the rear of the headquarters building are being devoted to the printing as well as to the sales department. The first copy of the "Knapsack" to be printed at the plant has just come off the press and is being sent to the hostel membership throughout the country. It is an attractive piece of printing.

Summer Colony Burns

Considerable attention has been drawn to the destruction by fire of the summer colony and camp of the Advent Christian church at Alton Bay, N. H. recently. The colony was situated at the head of Alton Bay on the hillside above Lake Winnepesaukee and contained nearly 250 cottages. Starting in a cottage at mid-day, the fire spread rapidly with a strong wind and nothing could be done to check it. Brush and trees were swept before the blaze and nothing was left of the place except a blackened ruin. It was one of New England's worst vacation resort fires. The tabernacle seating 900 persons burned. The camp was frequently visited by residents and members of the local church at South Vernon. When local Fire Chief Johnson was asked about the matter and of any similar consequences here in the local summer colony should a fire occur, he stated his belief that protection afforded here would prevent such result.

Service Pigeons Here

A flock of seven or eight pigeons coming from the northeast last Friday, the 24th, were seen by a number of persons, in the Mountain Park section. They alighted on the roof of a large house off Winchester road and remained about a half hour as if to rest and get their bearings. Through glasses it was found they were carrier pigeons having the proper markings. Food offered them on the ground did not persuade them to come down and all left but two who remained for a longer period. They circled high in the air and took a southerly course. It was concluded by several who saw them that they were birds used in the service and were released in order that they may fly to their homing station.

Miss Sophie Servaes, who for many years has been on the staff of the Bokstore, has accepted a transfer of work to Kenarden Hall.

The new superintendent of the Vernon Home at South Vernon will take over about September first. He is the Rev. L. M. Spaulding of Detroit, Mich., and, with his wife, will arrive here this week.

James Neigh is now occupying his completed large garage off North Lane near Birnam Road and finds himself busily engaged in work of repairs on automobiles.

Lawrence Ferris and his daughter Carolyn of Warwick avenue have been spending his vacation on a motor trip along the shore of Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Mrs. Harry Haskell, our town clerk, has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. C. H. Broadbent, at Toland, Conn.

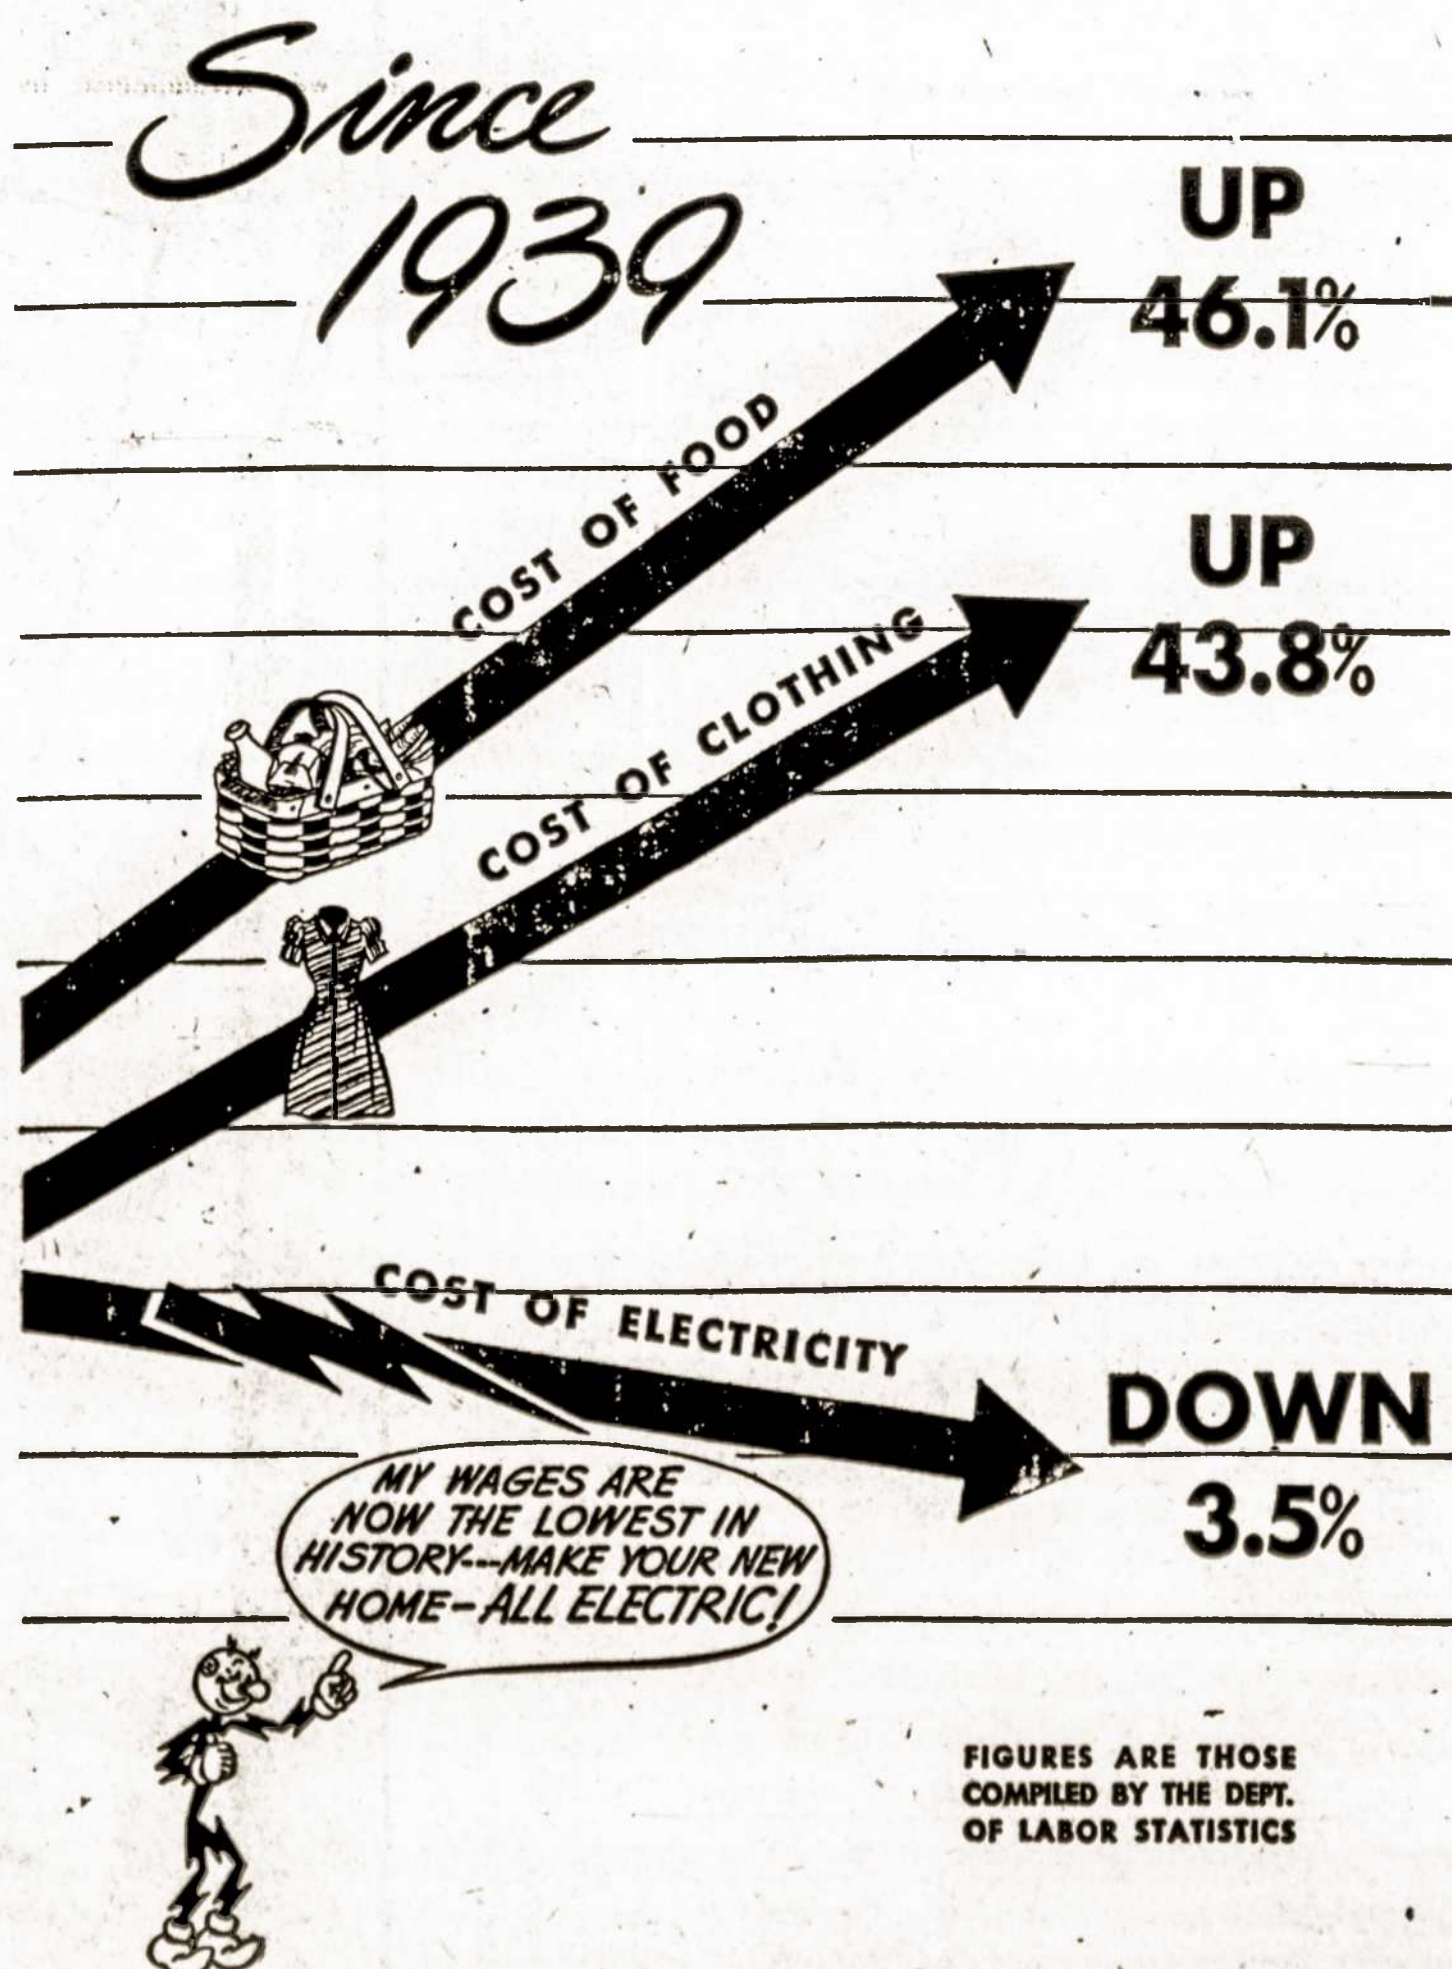

Final Summer Vespers

Sunday afternoon the 26th the final gathering for a Vesper Service of the summer colony was held at the home of Miss Lucy Jackson on Rustic Ridge and because of the cool and threatening weather the service was held in the home instead of on the lawn. The large room of the house was well filled and Rev. Mark Ray presided. Clergy who had a part in the service were Rev. Robert Heydenreich, Rev. Thomas Kidd and Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Berger. Rev. George Washburn delivered the address and selections were rendered by Miss Gertrude Lauber and Miss Ruth Card, who also presided at the piano. The singing of Gospel hymns was participated in by all.

Will Be Torn Down

The large and commodious old house known as Bethany located in the Highlands and used for many years in the past to house a group of girls from the Boston area for their summer vacation, is to be torn down and sold for salvage. The building was erected by Mr. and Mrs. William Hartshorn and had complete facilities for caring for thirty-five persons, with the cooking arrangements in a separate structure. After the death of Mr. and Mrs. Hartshorn the property passed into the other hands and finally the venture was concluded. The house, unused for a long period, has rapidly disintegrated and now will be removed for salvage purposes. Anyone interested in securing some of the material should consult with Mr. Hoehn, Tel. 536, who has the matter in charge.

Has Finance Session

The Town Finance Committee met Monday evening, the 27th, at the Town Hall to hear the request of the School committee for an additional appropriation to its funds of $600 with which to resume and continue the former arrangement of bus service for school pupils living beyond the mile and half area, which was discontinued as a war measure. Sydney Given appeared for the School committee. The Town Treasurer and the Tax Collector were also allowed an additional amount for expenses. Fred A. Holton, chairman, and George W. Carr of the Selectmen, attended the meeting. Members of the Finance committee present were Chairman Richard G. Holton, A. Percy Goodspeed, William F. Hoehn, James E. Dresser, Mrs. Carroll H. There were five distinct camps in all and each with a large attendance. The first was the Scout camp opening on July 2, followed by the Music Camp, then the Leadership camp and also the Guard Camp. Many of our citizens visited the camps at various times and found them in a high state of efficiency and the members enjoying the benefits of their summer outing.
